

"HONORARY HEAD COACH"

Jonathan Studebaker, age 19

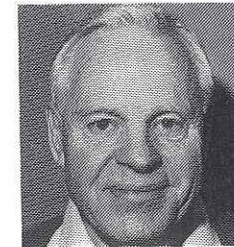

For the second year in a row, the Shrine Game is happy to have Jonathan Studebaker as our "honorary head coach." Jonathan, age 19, is a victim of Osteogenesis Imperfecta, a bone disease that causes the bones to be brittle, resulting in the collapse of the spine, arms, legs and skull. He first was admitted to Shriners' Hospital at age 2 and has returned to the hospital for treatment a number of times.

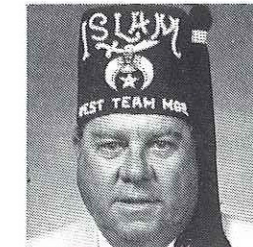

Jonathan is a sports buff. He knows football well and has designed plays for the Shrine Game in the past. As honorary head coach, he attends some of the Shrine Game practices, as well as other functions.

He is also a budding reporter, studying communications at Chico State. Jonathan is confined to a wheelchair, but he has not let that deter him from taking part in his interests and attaining his goals. The Shrine Game proudly welcomes Jonathan Studebaker back for his second Shrine "coaching assignment."

WILL OLSEN
East-West Business Manager

"Behind-the-scenes" is an oft-used term to denote the men and women who work for a cause, a job, an event, etc., and don't get very much recognition for their efforts.

There are many Shriners who toil hard—without pay—for most of every year handling scores of details to help make this game the success that it has been.

Will Olsen, Larry Richardson, and Jim Caylor are three such Nobles.

Will, a member of Islam Temple, has been a Shriner for many years, and, for the past 8-10 years, has been the Business Manager for the West team. Last year, he assumed the title of East-West Business Manager. Will will oversee the team details while the coaches and players are in the bay area, arrange the daily schedules, handle all of the finances with the hotels, per diem for the players, etc. It's a detail-oriented task that requires great skill.

Reporting to Will will be Larry Richardson, business manager for the East team, and Jim Caylor, business manager for the West team. Larry, a member of Aahmes Temple, and Jim, a member of Islam, are in charge of the two teams while they are here. They are the liaison between coaches and players and game management. They are there to make sure everything goes smoothly for the coaches and players, that the thousands of questions coaches and players have are answered, that all the game details are handled efficiently, practices and meals go smoothly, etc.

Then we have still additional Shriners helping out in these departments. Paul Supanich and Bill Haynes are assistant team managers, and present to help in any possible way.
